

Counting On You

*Words and Music by Raffi
© 2006 Homeland Publishing*

Young people search for a true way to live
From Tibet to Timbuktoo.
They look to their elders for guidance
Counting, counting on you.

The children of generations to come
Are counting on you.
Every human flower about to bloom
Is counting on you.

Every child arrives with gifts to give
Hoping, counting on you.
Alive in the power of childhood dreams
Counting, counting on you.

Asking you to live true to your heart and soul.
Asking you to come through – counting on you ... counting on you.

From this moment on to infinity
The children are counting on you.
In this fresh new trek to eternity
The children are counting on you.

Every child to sit at life's table
Is hoping, counting on you.
To give of yourself as you're able
The children are counting on you.

Asking you to live true to your heart and soul.
Asking you to come through – counting on you ... counting on you.

Asking you to live true to your souls' purpose.
Asking you to come through – counting on you ... counting on you.
The children are counting on you.